WASHINGTON WILL STRIVE FOR ARMY-NAVY CLASSIC AFTER 1923

CAMP'S ALL-AMERICAN ELEVEN CALLS FORTH SOME CRITICISM

Cummiskey Fails to Agree with Expert in Many Choices and Sees Room for Considerable Change in Several Instances, Giving Excellent Reasons.

By THOMAS L. CUMMISKEY.
NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—After perusing Walter Camp's all-American football selections, appearing today in Collier's Weekly, copyright, 1922, by P. F. Collier and Son Company, we decided several neglected players may be tempted to see some solitude and weep copious tears of disappointment.

Mr. Camp's annual indulgence in mythical team building has come to be as much expected as snows to the northland. His selections, as would be surmised, are always productive of much argument. It was ever thus in selecting "all" teams, no matter who the expert.

This year's choices are not likely on the whole to stir up as much argument as sages indulge in over the hereafter, but adverse comment of a very hated kind may be anticipated in several instances. His selections follow:

FIRST ELEVEN.
End.....Taylor, Annapolis.
Tackle.....Treat, Princeton.
Guard.....Schwab, Lafayette.
Center.....Garbisch, West Point.
Quarterback.....Hubbard, Harvard.
Fullback.....Thurman, Penna.
End.....Muller, Calif.
Quarterback.....Locke, Iowa.
Halfback.....Kaw, Cornell.
Fullback.....Kipke, Mich.
Fullback.....John Thomas, Chicago.

SECOND ELEVEN.
End.....Kirk, Michigan.
Tackle.....Waldorf, Syracuse.
Guard.....Cross, Yale.
Center.....Bower, Pittsburgh.
Quarterback.....Setron, W. Va.
Fullback.....Neidinger, South.
End.....Bomar, Vanderbilt.
Quarterback.....Smythe, West Point.
Halfback.....Morrison, Calif.
Fullback.....Owen, Harvard.
Fullback.....Barron, Georgia Tech.

THIRD ELEVEN.
End.....Kopt, Wash. & Jeff.
Tackle.....Below, Wisconsin.
Guard.....McMillen, Illinois.
Center.....Dickinson, Princeton.
Tackle.....Gulian, Brown.
End.....Kadesky, Iowa.
Quarterback.....Uterits, Michigan.
Halfback.....Jordan, Yale.
Fullback.....Castner, Notre Dame.

The fact that Mr. Camp has named only two "Big Three" players for the first team precludes any argument that he has been affected by the particular interest in these teams, being a Yale man. Princeton, the championship team of the East by consensus, has only one man, Treat; Harvard, one, Hubbard, and Yale, none.

SELECTED BY OWNER.
It is a notable fact also that all his first team choices have been selected by other experts, but not all of them names at these other experts for the first eleven. Some of Mr. Camp's first team choices have been named for the second team by other men. Others selected by Mr. Camp were not named by other experts at all. Pickings "all" teams is a strange business.

We, in common with others who are sure, were greatly surprised at a number of Mr. Camp's first team choices, but particularly in that he did not put George Owen, of Harvard, in the first eleven backfield, instead of on the second.

Owen seems entitled to it if anybody is. He is a grand, all-around player, without whom Harvard was markedly weak. His great run against Yale early in the game, running back of a kickoff, and his subsequent crash to achieve a touchdown are but instances of a wonderful performance, were it not for the fact he was run into by one of his team mates with a clear field ahead. The Harvard-Princeton might have been a tie, instead of a 10-3 verdict for the Tigers.

Kipke, of Michigan, as Mr. Camp notes, is a player who "requires a bit more care in handling than other backs," but is selected because "he makes up for this in his exceptional speed and dodging qualities."

DECLARED EXCELLENT.
He is also declared an "excellent kicker and the best placer of punts in the country," and "also a particularly dangerous interceptor of forward passes, and is selected because he makes up for this in his exceptional speed and dodging qualities."

Joe Lynch, placed at fullback on the first team, might have dropped to the second team and Owens moved up. Thomas scored three touchdowns against Princeton, but that was the only team he scored against.

Furthermore, he was held on the one-yard line by the Tigers, where—if he had gone over Chicago would have won instead of losing, 21 to 18. Walter Eckersall, a mid-Western expert, put Thomas on his third team. Had Mr. Camp selected Capt. Jordan, of Yale, for the first team backfield instead of Thomas it would strike us as a better choice. Wood, of the Army; Brunner, of Lafayette; Trenchard, of St. Mary's; and the Navy strike us also as having accomplished more than Thomas.

GENERALLY ACCEPTED.
The selections of Taylor, Annapolis, and "Blick" Muller, of California, for ends; Treat of Princeton, as a tackle; Kaw of Cornell, as a halfback; and Schwab of Lafayette, as a guard, have been generally accepted.

THESE BASEBALL COMEDIANS GET PLENTY OF ACTION IN BASKETBALL

Al Schacht and Nick Altrock have turned their talents to the well-known floor game. They put on a stunt with Holly's All-Leaguers who are playing around New York. Nick blew into town and spent Christmas. He says the act apparently went over big. Here you see Al and Nick, and from the way they hold the basketball you can imagine just how they play. Reports from Gotham tell of a lot of side-splitting stuff.

LEGION TEAM WILL PLAY ON ARCADE COURT

Swan Arranges to Stage Two Games a Week at Mt. Pleasant Amusement Palace.

CHARLEY SWAN, manager of the American Legion basketball team, last night handed out a bit of welcome news for Washington court fans in the announcement that he had arranged to play his home games at the Arcade, Fourteenth and Park road northwest.

The Mt. Pleasant amusement palace should make one of the most ideal basketball courts in the District. It has a high ceiling and there is ample floor space for a regulation court.

The Legionnaires will play two home games a week on Monday and Thursday nights, after the first of the year. Games are scheduled with the Chester Legionnaires, Wilmington Athletic Club, Philadelphia American Legion team as well as George Washington University.

Practice will start next week when uniforms arrive. A meeting of those interested will be held at Spaulding's next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., when those who desire to try for places on the club are to report.

Ed Kelly, former Business High and Yale athlete, and Donch, formerly of the Y. M. C. A., are the best additions to the veterans' squad. Both are veteran basketball players.

Kanawha Candidates Practice Tomorrow

Candidates for positions on the Kanawha basketball team are requested to report for practice tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock at the Coliseum. The Kanawhas will practice one night a week at the Coliseum. The following players are asked to report: Palmer, Johnson, Kennedy, Biran, Goodman, Blanken, Laufskey, Dennis, Elliott, Sykes, April, Berman, Paroni, and Bush.

PLAYS MARYLANDERS.

Western Maryland, St. John's, and Hopkins are on the 1923 football schedule of Washington and Lee University.

GOLF PROS ON RUN TO MAKE SUNNY CLIME

Washington Is to Be Quite Barren Within the Next Week or So.

WASHINGTON is going to be as barren of professional golfers in the next month as that picked turkey which only a day or so ago was a proud bird. Within the space of a week or so all of the pros will be elsewhere awaiting the call of the robin and the opening up of the courses for spring play.

Although he has made no definite plans as yet, Freddy McLeod will hike south shortly for his annual winter play and instruction.

Leo Diegel is going to Florida for the winter. Wilfred Reid, late with the Silver Spring Club, is already en route to sunnier climes.

Dave Thompson, of Washington Country Club fame, is going back to the "old country." Thompson will spend the winter in Scotland and will return some time in the spring when the time is quite ripe for play.

The latest to give Washington the gate is Dick Beattie, the affable Bannockburn professional. Beattie has felt the call of old Scotland and is going across the drink (that's a good one), for a visit to extend for a couple of months.

Bill Prendable is sticking around Argyle for the winter and is superintending the changes being made in the course.

All the boys will be back in the spring when things of a golfing nature begin to pick up. They say golf is an all-year-round game. It is for those who are able to make the grade in Florida every time the old Ford radiator begins to freeze up.

Quincy A. C. Will Play Alexandria Tonight

Fresh from a victory over Hyattsville, the Quincy A. C. will visit Alexandria tonight to mix matters on the court with the Light Infantry quint. The Quincy players are requested to report at 7 o'clock.

FIRST COURT GAME PROVES GREAT TREAT

Two Youngsters Expected to Outclass Holman, Beckman and Other Stars of Cage.

TWO youngsters, playing their first game on the court at Madison Square Garden Sunday night, covered themselves with glory and held the crowds spellbound with the wonderful exhibition of basketball they gave, says Murray Robinson in the New York Evening Mail.

When they get some much-needed experience these two coming stars, Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, by name, will be able to hold their own with the greatest of them, barring none.

Altrock and Schacht have gained some fame as baseball players, but the basketball ability which they displayed at the Garden had never been expected of them even by their closest friends. It is our prediction that within six months the names of Altrock and Schacht will be enrolled in the basketball hall of fame along with those of Holman, Beckman and other stars of the cage.

In another game at the Garden on the same evening the Celtics defeated the major leaguers of Ed Holly by the score of 43 to 35. The game seemed slow after the lightning speed of Altrock and Schacht, but Nat Holman was at his best, and it was largely through him that the Originals came out on top.

Frank Bruggy starred for the majors, but it seemed that they made a tactical error in letting Nick and Al play for them.

GIANT OWNER TO CAMPAIGN RACE STABLE

Charles A. Stoneham Plans Organization of Powerful Thoroughbred Establishment.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—When Charles A. Stoneham turns over the presidential reins to John J. McGraw on January 1, he plans to conduct one of the biggest stables of thoroughbred race horses in the country. According to a man very close to the baseball magnate, Stoneham hopes to have a string of thoroughbreds that will vie with those owned by Harry Sinclair and Sam Hildreth, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Harry Payne Whitney and Commander J. K. L. Ross.

Stoneham's retirement from baseball undoubtedly was due to his desire to devote his entire time to racing. Last season he sold the Havana race track, but it is said that he intends to re-purchase this beautiful course.

At present Stoneham owns two fine thoroughbreds, Flannel Shirt and Dry Moon. He also owns many others of less repute. Yellow Hand, which broke down a year ago, was considered one of the best handi-cap horses in the country, and Stoneham hopes to get another horse to take the place of this one which was the pride of his stable.

Canadian Woman On Top At Carolina Shoot

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 26.—Mrs. H. E. Moles, of Montreal, one of the most successful of the independent pupils that Agnes Bakley has trained in the Pinehurst Gun Club, registered the best score of the season here today when she won the first prize in the Women's Rifle Tournay, with a score of 142 out of a possible 150 points.

Three sisters, the Misses Katherine, Marion, and Roberta Lewis, of Chicago, came in second, third and fourth, with scores ranging from 135 points for Miss Katherine down to 118 points for Miss Roberta.

WOULD RETAIN FORD.

The Braves want to retain Ford in fact, he is needed by Fred Mitchell—but President Grant said he is willing to trade the young infielder for Tierney and Wilbur Cooper. Grant is earing a record for giving things away.

NEW YORK PROBABLE CHOICE OF POINTERS FOR NEXT GRID YEAR

Doug Howard Asks Change in Agreement That Will Allow Contest to Be Played in This City If Navy Middy Interests Care to Switch Here.

By BRYAN MORSE.
WASHINGTON football interests set no hope on landing the 1923 Army-Navy football game. New York is conceded the engagement without a struggle. For the 1924 campaign, however, there is hope that between Baltimore and Washington, Capital City will land the contest. Today in Philadelphia Army and Navy athletic officials will meet to discuss the contest for 1923 and to renew the contract, which has run out with the playing of the game in Philadelphia last month. Incidentally, it will be one of the last acts of Lieut. Comdr. Douglas Howard as athletic officer of the Naval Academy, as that worthy packs his trunk and goes to the U. S. S. Texas.

By the same token, the meeting will be perhaps the last for Mr. Charles Daly, West Point coach, as he has asked to be relieved, and will be succeeded by Capt. "Tug" McEwan, who, by the way, is a West Point out at Frank Newberry's Army and Navy Prep School.

Golfers Here Will Remember This Young Man

UPON reaching the age of seventy-five years Lord Rosebery said upon receipt of a birthday message: "I cannot agree that the age of seventy-five is a subject for unqualified congratulation." Whereupon a Canadian paper interviewed a large number of prominent men in the Dominion, all of whom had long passed the minimum senior age, including Adam Brown in his ninety-seventh year, and J. R. Booth, the multi-millionaire lumberman, who is ninety-five years young.

George S. Lyon, many times amateur golf champion of Canada, although only in his sixty-fifth year, was included in the list, and he replied to the query: "At what age does life cease to be interesting?" as follows: "I cannot answer this question intelligently, as I have not as yet reached that stage. I am only in my sixty-fifth year, strong, vigorous and active. This I attribute to much outdoor exercise."

NOTHING DOING HERE.
Washington interests, knowing that West Point has the choice of next year's location and that the Army will select New York for the classic, are bidding their time and will make the grand rush after the next campaign when it is the Navy's turn to make the push.

The fact that the Navy is making a change in the phrasing of the contract with West Point that will admit the game being played here is the first step in the direction of bringing the classic to Washington in the history of the game.

It is still a mooted question as to whether the Navy ever would play here, at the same time there is no harm in trying. It is almost certain that in 1924 the Navy will meet Georgetown in this city in reports from Annapolis are to be believed.

GRID COACHES WILL DISCUSS ALL PROBLEMS

Noted Mentors to Speak in New York Session Today at Association Meeting.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Football coaches of the country are headed here for the annual mid-winter meeting of the American Football Coaches' Association and of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The meetings will be held Wednesday at the Hotel Astor, and according to Dr. J. W. Wiley, director of football at the Ohio State University and secretary of the American Football Coaches' Association, discussion among the coaches will focus on practical football problems and rules.

Dr. Wiley announced that chief among the speakers at Wednesday's sessions will be Dr. J. B. McCurdy, of Springfield, Mass., secretary of the American Physical Education Association; Fielding H. Yost, of Michigan; Howard Jones, of Yale and Iowa; Maj. C. D. Daly, of West Point; and W. W. Roper, of Princeton. All coached undefeated football teams during the season just closed.

"Big Biff" Edwards, one-time Princeton star, and Percy Haughton, famous mentor of a few seasons back, also will address the meetings.

Men Train In North

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Nine men on the Columbia University hockey team left for Lake Placid tonight for five days of training in preparation for the game with Princeton on January 8 at the Hobey Baker Memorial rink.

During their stay they will play several games with the Dartmouth team.

MEADOWS MAY GO.

Lee Meadows is likely to be traded by the Phillies. The "big league" twirler is in a frame of mind regarding playing in Philadelphia that is anything but conducive to his best work. Is there a big deal with the Giants brewing? Mr. Baker said he intended to trade his pitcher if he did not change his ideas.

GUN CLUB TO MEET.

Members of the Washington Gun Club will hold their annual meeting tonight, following a wild duck dinner at the City Club at 6:30 o'clock.
